

Jeff Schumacher is an individual who takes a great deal of pride and compassion into his work and it shows in his daily interaction with clientele. He is very professional, humble, non-intrusive, and brings the very faith he practices with him as he works. He ends his sessions with prayer and gives a personal blessing to the family and people he has taken the time to meet. His schedule adjusts according to the clients needs and never according to his needs. He is a servant to God's people – and a faithful one; he is also a Knight, and boasts of their qualities and characteristics as often as his interactions will allow. He equips himself with other facets of the Church that will enable families, couples, and individuals to ensure they get a full service commitment from Jeff, such as carrying brochures about Marriage Encounter, scholarships, and more. I highly recommend Jeff to anyone who needs to feel comfortable about who they are and what they need in life. He will ensure that even if he doesn't have the answers, someone in the faith community does and he will make sure he finds that someone to assist the client in whatever capacity they need. Your interests and concerns become his."

God bless.
